Emergency status: a state of emergency was declared on March 27, 2020. It was extended.

Health care

- Yukon Deputy Chief Medical Officer of Health Dr. Catherine Elliott today confirmed a new case of COVID-19, bringing the territory's total to 24 cases since the first infection was announced on March 22, 2020.
- There is a new potential COVID-19 exposure notice. If you were in the exposure locations and have symptoms we ask that you get tested: <https://yukon.ca/en/news/covid-19-public-health-notifications-issued-whitehorse>.
- With the COVID-19 pandemic, this year the flu vaccine is more important than ever.
- The COVID testing centre's hours of operation are 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Sunday. Referrals are no longer required for a COVID-19 test.
- To help Yukoners at risk during this pandemic, people can access mental health and social supports online.

Travel and borders

- Yukoners who are hosting family this holiday season will need to prepare to self-isolate if they have visitors from outside BC, the NWT or Nunavut: <https://yukon.ca/en/news/november-10-2020-covid-19-update>
- British Columbia's Provincial Health Officer announced new orders this weekend. Yukoners travelling to or from BC will need to follow COVID-19 guidelines and abide by the order while they're in BC.
- Residents of BC, Nunavut, NWT and Yukon are allowed to travel in those jurisdictions without the need to self-isolate for 14 days in Yukon. However, you should take preliminary precautions before travelling into Yukon. Reduce your exposure before your travel date, and practice the safe 6.
- Canada and the US has continued to extend the border closures to non-essential travel until November 21.
- Yukoners are reminded that if you choose to go past the Canadian border station at Fraser or Beaver Creek, you must be aware of the federal rules for re-entering Canada at the time of your departure.

Businesses and financial relief

- The Government of Canada announced a new agreement with the Government of Yukon to support essential air access to remote communities. The Government of Canada is contributing up to $7 million to ensure continuity of services for at least six months: <https://www.canada.ca/en/transport-canada/news/2020/11/government-of-canada-announces-agreement-with-government-of-yukon-to-support-essential-air-access-to-remote-communities.html>
